THE FIFTY-CENT ACT

a Trap to Catch the Taxing-District and Open the Door for the Mandamus Bealers

Oppress the People, to the Utter Destruction of the Hopes Born of the Councils Management.

Judge J. W. Clapp, in the course of an in aid of the iniquitous lifty-cent act that-

If it was not intended to confer upon our pres ent city government the power to levy and collect a tax to meet these bonds, principal and interest, it quints palpably in that direction, and a hint of the kind is all that the Federal courts require to of the act confers upon the holders of the bonds med under its provision all the rights and remedies that were given to the bondholders under the uet of March 8, 1877, known as the "Flippin compromise act," and under section 6 of that act great favor. the municipal authorities are required to levy annually "an ample interest and sinking fund tax." Under the present act the power of our city uthorities to levy and collect a tax is nowhere exssly withheld, and as they are authorized to e these bonds the courts would seize woon plausible ground to hold that the authority to issue the bonds carried with it an implied power to len a tax to pay them, as municipa! corporations have no other means of meeting their obligations than ough the taxing power. The sixth section of present law certainly hints at some other mod f levying a tax to meet the bonds than one levied directly by the Legislature; and then, with th under the nixth section of the Flippin compromis act, I think there is little doubt that, if our city thorities accept the act, we may prepare for nother mandamus shower whenever the occasion requires it; and, at all events, the whole revenues of the city, whatever exigencies may arise, will be at the mercy of the bondholder. JUDGE ELLETT'S OPINION. I am inclined to think that the act is null and oid as it stands, and that its accept mee would on'y produce confusion and embarrassment. The ast section provides that the act shall not take effect until ten days after acceptance and ratificaion. This refers the question whether the act shall ever take effect as a law to the decision of the Taxing-District. This seems to me to be a delegaion of legislative power, and therefore wholly nuatory. I am strongly persuaded that this sort of ment. followed closely by the one succeeding it, or causing the preceding one to wait at the stable until the "lay-up" comes up. But everybody has his own notion about running a street-car line, you know.

The Mission Home, for the reclamation of abandoned women and the education of orphan children, continues its work of mercy successfully. The report for the year just ended shows that the number of inmates was 90, consisting of 17 adults and 30 children. Number admitted during the present year 90; number continues the present year 90; number admitted during the present year 90; number continues the school.
